

Busy Summer Promoting Collaboration – August 2007

Over the Summer Anne O Neill has certainly been busy promoting and developing collaboration. In May Anne and Helen Collins of Wolfe and Co travelled to Nenagh , Co Tipperary to meet with the Garda Inspectorate and to give a presentation to them. This was a very successful meeting. The Gardai are interested in this option but to pass on the relevant information through their human resources to garda members with family difficulties and also because they come into contact in their work on a daily basis with families in crisis.

In June, Anne and Helen took the initiative and spoke to an invited group of West Cork based Auctioneers in Dunmanway, Co Cork about collaboration. As a result of that meeting West Cork now has the benefit of an informed group of Auctioneers who have registered an interest in this way of working and who are committed to assist in any way they can.

Recently, Anne travelled with Noel Doherty (Fitzgeralds, Cork) to Drumoland Castle in Co Clare to meet with family law solicitors working in Galway to discuss setting up collaboration as a practise in Galway and the Western Seaboard. There are at least 10 Solicitors trained in Galway and a further training is on the cards in May 2008. That training will take place in Galway or Limerick and it is hoped that will give the impetus to practise on the Western Seaboard.
